

WM. HOOPER YOUNG ADMITS MURDER OF MRS. ANNA PULITZER

And Proof of the Crime Discovered in the Trunk That Has Been Shipped to Chicago—Claims to Have Been Assisted in the Crime
By Another Person.

New York, Sept. 23.—Murderer Wm. Hooper Young arrived from Derby, Conn., at 9:19 this morning. He was in the custody of Detectives Hughes and Finley. A big crowd who had heard the news that Young was coming was gathered in the depot when the train pulled in. The detectives, aided by half a dozen policemen, hustled the prisoner out through a side entrance and into a cab which was driven rapidly down town to police headquarters. Young was very nervous when he alighted from the train and eyed the crowd furtively as if expecting violence. There was no demonstration.

Young reached police headquarters at 9:45. Lawyer Hart was with him. The prisoner was at once taken to the rogues' gallery, where his picture was taken.

The detectives said they had no trouble with Young on the trip down from Derby. The prisoner read the papers, chiefly the stories of himself and chatted with the officers. He told them whiskey had got him into the scrape and that hereafter he would leave it alone and be good. Lawyer Hart told the reporters at headquarters that his client was absolutely innocent of the crime.

After the prisoner's picture was taken he was questioned by Captain Titus for nearly two hours. He made a remarkable statement accusing one Charles Simpson Eiling, of the crime and showing that he was a victim of circumstances. The story is the same he told the Connecticut authorities and was made public for the first time by Captain Titus. The story is as follows:

He said he met a man named Chas. Simpson Eiling in Central Park three weeks ago. After this meeting he was to call at Young's flat regularly. On the night in question Eiling and Young met Mrs. Pulitzer by appointment at Broadway and Forty-sixth street. The three went to Young's flat together. Young went out for whiskey. When he returned he found Mrs. Pulitzer lying on the bed with a gag in her mouth. Eiling was gone.

"I opened her clothes at the waist and tried to restore respiration by moving her hands back and forth. When this did not succeed I put my hand in her waist, and found that her heart was not beating. Convinced that she was dead, I started out to get a policeman. I thought I would go to headquarters and believing they were at the city hall started down town on the elevated.

"On the way I thought of the disgrace this would bring on me and my father. I then started back to get rid of the body. I took the long knife and, started to cut Mrs. Pulitzer in order to more easily put her in the trunk. The stench, however, was so great that I desisted."

Young said that Eiling was a young man about 23 years of age, with smooth shaven face and about five feet seven inches, with a clear, bright face and pale complexion. When Young saw him last he was dressed in a dark suit, with a straw hat.

After Captain Titus got through questioning Young, he sent the prisoner to the criminal court house, where he will be arraigned before the coroner.

Derby, Conn., Sept. 23.—William Hooper Young, the murderer of Mrs. William Kingston Pulitzer, was taken to New York on the 7:18 train this morning.

"IT'S ALL UP WITH ME," YOUNG SAID TODAY, "AND I MAY AS WELL HURRY THINGS ALONG. TO AWAIT EXTRADITION WILL ONLY ADD TO THE AGONY."

Young passed a sleepless night in his cell in jail in the Casino building. Two police kept a watch at the door o'clock, accompanied by Gustave A. Ernest, of Brooklyn, was able through Ernest to establish the identity of the suspected man to his own satisfaction, but to make the identification complete the detective decided to have another acquaintance of Young confront the man, and Mac Levy was sent for.

Late last evening, several hours after Young had admitted his identity he was shown a copy of the cablegram sent by his father, John Y. Young from Paris, published in yesterday's Advocate, advising him to surrender and declaring that his family would stand by him. Young read the message and for the first time gave evidence of strong emotion. Tears rolled down his cheeks and he turned to the wall of his cell to repress he made a strong effort to repress his sobs. He refused to speak of the message afterward.

Young is reported to have made a confession in which he claims that an accomplice actually committed the murder. Young is said to have told Mac Levy that he and one Charles Simpson Eiling of Bridgeport, Conn., lured the woman to Young's flat where Young left them for a while. On his return Young says that Eiling, who immediately fled, told him that he had killed the woman by giving her a dose of chloral hydrate in a glass of beer. Anxious to save his friend Young said that he attempted to dismember the body but that his nerve failed him and he subsequently removed it in a trunk. No such man as Eiling is known in Bridgeport and the police regard the confession as a clumsy effort on the part of Young to shield himself. Eiling is the name to which Young addressed the trunk in Chicago. Young says that he expected Eiling to go to Chicago and claim the trunk.

* The body of Mrs. Jos. P. Pulitzer, of Hoboken, N. J., was found * last week in the Morris canal be- * tween Jersey City and Newark. * It is alleged that the woman was * murdered in the New York apart- * ments of Wm. Hooper Young, a * grandson of Brigham Young, of * Utah. Young, according to the * theory, then hired a buggy in Ho- * boken, proceeded to New York, * loaded a trunk containing his * ghastly burden into the vehicle, * and driving to the edge of the * canal, tied a hitching strap with a * twenty pound weight attached, to * the body, which he threw into the * canal. His father is said to be a * very wealthy man. A trunk con- * taining some of Young's clothing * and some woman's wearing appar- * el, part of which was bloody, was * shipped to Chicago and returned * to New York Monday as stated in * dispatches to the Advocate yes- * terday. * * * * *

SALARIES FOR COUNCILMEN UNDER THE NEW CODE

People Can Begin to Realize How Expensive the New Government for Cities Promises.

Columbus, Sept. 23.—The code committee has adopted the report of the sub-committee providing that includes of 25,000 or less Councilmen shall receive $150, and $100 for each additional 30,000. This would give Cleveland councilmen $1,250 per year.

IMMIGRATION On the Increase from Eastern Europe of an Undesirable Class—Recom- mendation of Commissioner.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Mr. Sargent, Commissioner of Immigration, is putting the finishing touches to his annual report for publication on Oct. 1. The report will show that the tide of immigration to this country, so far from decreasing is still on the increase. Also that the principal increases are from the countries of Eastern Europe which furnish the least desirable classes of immigrants to the United States, both morally and physically. Sargent will recommend more stringent laws to put a stop to this influx which is lowering the standard of American citizenship.

The Panther At Colon.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Bulletin.—
Word was received by the navy department this morning that the Panther had arrived at Colon. She has on board 400 marines under command of Colonel Russell, destined for duty on the Isthmus of Panama.

Cholera In Philippines.

Washington, Sept. 23.—(Bulletin)—
General Chaffee reports to the war department by mail that there were 31 deaths from cholera among the enlisted men of the army in the Philippines between July 10 and August 12.

PRESIDENT IS IN FAVOR OF BI-PARTISAN COM- MISSION

To Consider the Subject of Tariff Revision—So Announces in Indiana Tuesday.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 23.—President Roosevelt made the most important speech of his northwestern trip here this morning. He discussed tariff revision, admitted the necessity for consideration of the subject and declared his own personal preference for the establishment of a bipartisan commission to consider the entire subject and make a report to Congress on the same.

The presidential train which left Detroit at 2 o'clock this morning arrived here on schedule time at 7:15 a. m., after a one minute stop at Peru where the president did not show himself.

HAHN CASE IS NOW JUMPED INTO SUPREME COURT.

Trump Card Played—No Indictment
by Grand Jury of Richland County Was Found.

Manassas, Sept. 23.—The Richland County Grand Jury, which Judge Du-Bois advised against indicting William M. Hahn in his sensational charge to that body eight days ago, reported its findings late yesterday afternoon. The 21 cases were taken under advisement, and 120 subpoenas were examined.
The grand jury were returned with Wm. M. Hahn's name not among them.

Considerable wrath is expressed here by Hahn's friends and attorney with Judge DuBois on the storm center.

TROOPS ARE ORDERED OUT IN THE COAL STRIKE REGION

Serious Outbreaks at Olyphant Cause the Thirteenth To Go There--The Ninth May Be Called to Wilkesbarre--It is Said Most of the Soldiers are Sympathizers.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 23.—The Thirteenth regiment of the Pennsylvania state guards are at Olyphant.

They were ordered out at midnight and at 5 o'clock this morning took possession of the town which had been subjected to a reign of terror for hours preceding their arrival. The Thirteenth is in charge of Lieut. Col. F.
W. Stilwell.

The disturbances of yesterday and last night were general and seemed to break out as if preconcerted.

During last evening Sheriff Schadt realized that he was unable to longer cope with the situation which was continually growing more threatening every hour. He then made a call for troops. The guard had been expecting a call and when the orders came at midnight it did not take long to get under way. There was wild hurrying and scurrying about the city and at 5 o'clock this morning the guard was on Delaware and Hudson special trains on their way to Olyphant.

From yesterday afternoon until late last night there were disturbances of a wild order up the valley. They started when Eugene Ditty was mobbed and perhaps fatally injured by 15 foreigners. Last evening Deputy Sheriff Michael Andrews and another man were brutally assaulted and the deputy in self defense, shot a striker
by the name of Taylor.

The greatest surprise the Olyphant people ever received was when they awoke this morning and found themselves in the hands of the militia.

The greatest indignation prevails and unless wise counsel prevents, bloodshed is sure to follow the coming of the troops, for a feeling of bitterness has always existed between the miners of the valley and the members of the Thirteenth regiment. Up to 10 o'clock this morning nothing has occurred to mar the peace. The washeries and a few mines which have been operating with great difficulty for some time resumed this morning without any interference on the part of the strikers.

GANTZ HANGED IN PRISON YARD AT READING.

Murderer Went to the Gallows Stolid-ly and Had Nothing Whatever to Say.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 23.—Geo. Gantz was hanged in the county prison yard at 10:15 this morning for the murder of fifteen year old Annie Elter, on Saturday night, October 26, 1901. He went to the gallows stolidly and had nothing to say.

Gantz murdered his victim in an abandoned stable near her home. He was intoxicated at the time. The two had gone to a suburban resort in the evening. Gantz made a proposal to the girl which she refused. He then knocked her down and accomplished his purpose and the girl died in a hospital the next morning.

KENTUCKY TAYLOR OFFERS TO SPEAK IN THIS STATE.

Columbus, O., Sept. 23.—Ex-Governor Taylor of Kentucky, who lives at Indianapolis has offered his services to Chairman Dick of the Republican State Committee on condition that Governor Nash guarantee him protection from possible extradition to Kentucky for alleged complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel. General Dick has laid the matter before Governor Nash.

STRICKEN While Returning from the Deathbed of a Friend But the Horse Brought Her Home.

Marion, O., Sept. 23.—Miss Inez
Johnson, daughter of Hiram Johnson, of Greencamp, was found unconscious in a carriage and her condition is still critical.

Miss Johnson, who is about 15 years old, had been at the sick home, where the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher had died and had left early in the evening for home in a single carriage. Enroute home she became unconscious.
The horse, however, went on to the home of her parents, who found her in the buggy in the barnyard.

A physician was summoned and by and by the young lady was revived.
She is still in a dangerous condition.
Her strange illness cannot be accounted for and is surrounded by an air of mystery.

RIOT CALL ISSUED.

Mahanoy City, Pa., Sept. 23.—In view of recent disorders in Mahanoy
City, Sheriff Beddall, late last night issued a riot proclamation. Copies were posted about the main streets here this morning. The proclamation calls upon the citizens of Schuylkill county to be law abiding, not to assemble for the purpose of interfering with persons going to, or returning from work and declares that demonstrations or threats must not be made.

Despite the proclamation strikers pickets were abroad all night in force, turning back non-union workmen and watching trains. No violence is reported.

GEN. GOBIN AT WILKESBARRE.

Tamaqua, Pa., Sept. 23.—At eight o'clock this morning General Gobin and staff arrived in town from Shenandoah. Later they took a train for Wilkesbarre where the situation will be noted and ground selected for the quartering of new troops.

In speaking to your representative this morning General Gobin said he considered the situation in the entire coal region extremely forbidding, which fully warranted the calling out of additional troops.

"I have already ordered the Thirteenth regiment to the field. It will be quartered at Olyphant where I anticipate trouble. A plan for the distribution of troops is this: Twelfth to remain at Shenandoah and Manilla Park, as at present; call out the Fourth and place it at Mahanoy City, where trouble is apt to occur at any minute; the Eighth at present at Shenandoah will be moved to Wilkes-barre, where I will make my headquarters. My mission to Wilkesbarre, today is to perfect plans that I have already stated."

At Lansdale this morning a number of pickets were out intercepting non-union men on their way to work.
No violence was attempted.

SOLDIERS BEAT NON-UNION MEN.

Scranton, Sept. 23.—Many of the militia serving here are union men. Two soldiers caught two non-union men on the way to work this morning, and gave them a beating. A court-martial is probable.

MOB FATALLY WOUNDS TWO.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 23.—A mob attacked two non-union men on their way to work at the Lackawanna colliery, shortly before noon today. They are brothers Bert and Chas. London.
Both will probably die. They were shot at many times, and desperately wounded.

REPUBLICANS Of New York Meet in Convention this Afternoon—Quigg on Tariff and Trusts.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The convention was called to order at 12:15 this afternoon. The ticket as planned is: For governor, Benj. B. Odell, Jr., of Orange county; for lieutenant governor, George R. Sheldon, of New York; for secretary of state, Senator Jos. Mc-Ewan, of Albany county; for attorney general, H. B. Coman, of Madison.

In his speech as temporary chairman of the Republican State convention, speaking on the tariff and trusts, Lemuel Quigg said: "The question of trusts and unlawful combinations has no more connection with the tariff than the penal code has with the general business of life. The man who would destroy the protective system in order to destroy the trusts would pull his house down to catch the burglars."

IS THE TARIFF SACRED?

The plank in the Iowa Republican platform which caused Speaker Henderson to withdraw as a candidate for Congress in the Dubuque district and which is now being assailed by many Republicans as a shocking intimation of a desire to establish "free trade" is as follows:

We cordially indorse the position of President Roosevelt in appealing to the courts to secure regulations that will control great combinations of capital that prevent competition and control the industries of the people without legal sanction or public approval. We favor such amendment to the interstate commerce act as will more fully carry out its prohibition of discriminations in rate-making and any modification of the tariff schedules that may be required to prevent their affording shelter to monopoly.

Interpreted as such things usually are, what is there in all this to which any American outside of the headquarters of a few of the more arrogant of the criminal trusts can take exceptions to?

The most enthusiastic of our protectionists have always disclaimed an idea of fostering monopoly. Whether the most selfish of them were wholly in earnest or not, they have not hesitated to sugar-coat all of their tariff pills in some such fashion as this. If the Republicans of Iowa in intimating that they were in favor of preventing any shelter for monopoly in the tariff laws—it is to be observed that they did not charge that there was such shelter—committed a high crime and misdemeanor in the eyes of the trusts and combines it would seem to be pertinent to ask:

Has the protective tariff become so sacred an institution that even its friends dare not so much as propose a modification of any part of it?

ROOSEVELT'S TALK

Will Have No Effect on the Republican Party in Congress on the Trust Question.

There is very little faith in the sincerity of President Roosevelt's professions on the trust question. This lack of faith would not be so pronounced if Roosevelt had taken the same stand while Congress was in session that he did after Congress adjourned. The great mass of the American people are sufficiently intelligent to know that the talking Roosevelt has been doing since Congress adjourned is rather meaningless when he kept comparatively silent and did so little during all the months of the last session.

But aside from the President's sincerity in his anti-trust talk, it is plain that he feels the necessity for taking the stand he does against the growing power of trust monopoly. The people, tiring of being robbed, are growing louder and louder in their demand that trust power and aggression shall be curbed.

But, granting Roosevelt's entire sincerity in the present more outspoken attitude he has taken against trusts, the question propounds itself whether his party can be depended upon to curb trust aggression and power, and will it support the President in such a policy in the halls of Congress?

It will be recalled that in his annual message in December, in a special message in June and in a number of conferences with senators and representatives during the entire session, President Roosevelt urged reciprocity with Cuba.

Nothing was done. Again, President Roosevelt in his annual message recommended government supervision of trusts.

Nothing was done. He recommended publicity as a remedy for certain trust evils.

Nothing was done. Cuban reciprocity was ignored for the same reason that his recommendations as to trusts control were. The Beet Sugar trust didn't want reciprocity, and that was enough to kill it, and, besides, the high protectionist wing of the Republican party didn't want it; and that was more than enough to kill it. The trusts contribute campaign funds to elect Republican presidents, congressmen and senators. They have a secret understanding with the leaders that their business shall not be interfered with and it is a pretty safe bet that they won't be, however much the man in the White House may desire it or agitate it.

An esteemed citizen may have had troubles in his life that his friends regretted. But doubtless they never knew he was afflicted with alleged friendship that would cause any man grief.

LONDON CAB SERVICE.

Why It Is the Best and the Cheapest in the World.
"Everyone knows, either from experience or hearsay, that the cab service in London is the best and cheapest in the world, but few of us know why. So when I was over there I made it a point to find out."

The woman who occupied the other seat in the hansom looked as if she would like to hear the result of his investigations. "It is mainly due," he continued, "to the fact that licenses to drive cabs and buses through the London streets are hard to get. An applicant must furnish the most satisfactory proofs of his honesty when he files his application at Scotland Yard, and his references are carefully verified. Then he undergoes such a rigid examination as to his knowledge of streets and localities that but little more than half the candidates manage to pull through it. Those who do are then tested as to their ability to drive through the crowded thoroughfares, the test being a practical one, with an inspector of police, who is himself an expert driver, seated by the side of the would-be John as he threads his way through the jam. Probably 20 per cent of the applicants come to grief during this test, as the slightest infraction of the rules of the road or the exercise of bad judgment in controlling or guiding his horse means absolute failure. If successful, the applicant is impressed with the importance of returning all articles left in his cab to headquarters without delay and told that an attempt to make excessive charges means the forfeiture of his license. The result is comparative safety to the passengers in cabs and a reasonable certainty that there will be no attempt upon the 'cabby's' part to overcharge his fare."—New York Tribune.

TOM L. JOHNSON

May Be Secured to Address the People of Newark

Efforts of the Democratic County Committee to Secure Johnson and Chairman Fulton's Hopes for Success.

The Democratic County Committee speak in Newark and he has hopes of making a persistent effort to get securing Mr. Johnson. The State Tom L. Johnson to speak in Newark Committee made Mr. Fulton the before the campaign closes. The pledge that they would endeavor to Committee is unanimous in the desire have Mr. Johnson change his plans so to have Mr. Johnson come and Mr. Fulton to come to Newark and speak before the campaign closes.

Chairman Fulton, therefore, has hopes of yet being able to secure Mr. Johnson. The American Tribune's statement regarding the Democratic Committee's wishes is as devoid of truth as the usual campaign utterances of that paper.

If Mr. Johnson cannot be induced to change his plans, the State Committee will send other eminent speakers to Newark to address the people.

FATE OF HINDOO GIRLS.

Nepal Rajpoots Cause Their Daughters to Be Murdered.

A Capuchin monk engaged in missionary work in Nepal, writing of Hindoo family life, remarks that it is very difficult for parents to make advantageous matches for their daughters. The Hindoos therefore find a means of ridding themselves of too many daughters by murdering them. It is a well known fact that Hindoos of high birth, those who are called rajpoots, caused their daughters to be put to death after their birth by men specially engaged to do so. This criminal custom had become so general that in 1840 in the seventy-three villages of the Allahabad district there were only three girls under twelve years of age, and three years later in the town of Agra there was not one to be found under that age. All had been put to death.

The English government has very naturally passed severe laws against this abominable crime, but to evade them the Hindoos allow their girls to live until the age of twelve, after which they do away with them by administering poison in small doses. Orientalists are past masters in the art of poisoning, and after some minute inquiries it transpires that in many districts twenty-five out of every hundred girls have been got rid of in this manner. Those girls who have been spared their marry very early, generally between fourteen and fifteen years, and that not according to their own choice, but by the will of their parents, which is decisive.

An Indian family of good rank could not keep an unmarried daughter. It would not only be a public shame, but also a crime against religion. To procure husbands for those who have not already found them there are a number of Brahmins, old and decrepit, called Kulin Brahmins, who go about with the one object of going through the ceremony of the "seven steps" with as many young girls as they can upon receipt of a large sum of money, but who afterward leave the country and perhaps never see them again.—Fall Mail Gazette.

KINGS AND QUEENS.

The king of England who could not speak the language of his kingdom was George I.

In the battle of Bosworth Field, 1485, a king was killed (Richard III.) and a king was crowned (Henry VII.). The motto, "Dieu et Mon Droit," was first assumed by Edward III. of England when he took the title of king of France.

"Your majesty" as a royal title was assumed in England in 1527 by Henry VIII. The title before that was "your grace" or "your highness" for the king or queen.

William IV. was at the time when he succeeded to the throne the first William of Hanover, the second William of Ireland and the third William of Scotland.

Henry VIII. was the first to assume the title of king of Ireland. The title king of Great Britain was assumed by James VI. of Scotland when he became James I. of England.

Richard I. was the first to call himself king of England. Every line from William to Henry II. called himself king of the English. The title was assumed by Edward, the first king of England, in 1284.

King of France was a title borne by the monarchs of England for 422 years, and when Elizabeth became queen of England she was also "king of France," asserting that if she could not be a queen she would be king.

LARGELY ATTENDED

Was Funeral of Late P. F. Rhoads, Which Took Place on Tuesday Afternoon.

The funeral services of the late P. F. Rhoads, took place from the family home on Granville street this afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The officiating clergyman was Rev. George Van Fossen, rector of Trinity Episcopal church and the funeral services were under the auspices of Newark Lodge, No. 97, F. & A. M., of which the deceased had been a prominent member for many years. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, and the utmost sorrow was felt at the decease of one who was so highly respected and greatly loved, and whose death will be sincerely mourned.

FARMER KILLED

By Deputy Game Warden Who Shot With Fatal Result.

Fremont, O., Sept 23.—Deputy Game Warden Albert Kirmes Monday afternoon shot and killed Ferdinand Bork, a well to do farmer residing west of this city. Kirmes went to Bork's house to arrest his two sons for shooting squirrels out of season and Kirmes says he was met by the father, who became enraged and struck him a blow with a corn cutter, inflicting wounds on his head and neck. Kirmes then shot and at once gave himself up to the authorities.

A Story of Cervantes. Cervantes once gave a proof that his generosity was fully equal to his genius. In the early part of his life he was for some time a slave in Algiers, and there he devised a plan to free himself and thirteen of his fellow sufferers.

One of them traitorously revealed the design, and they were all brought before the dey of Algiers, who promised them their lives on condition that they revealed the contriver of the plot. "It was that person," at once cried Cervantes. "Save my companions and let me perish alone."

The dey, struck by his intrepidity, spared his life, allowed him to be ransomed and permitted him to go home.

Clings to His Merry. "Ah," he sighed, "I was happier when I was poor."

"Well," they answered coldly, "it is always possible for a man to become poor again."

But somehow the idea did not seem to impress him favorably.—Chicago Post.

Of the Platform Adopted at the Democratic State Convention.

In state convention assembled, we, the Democrats of Ohio, hereby acknowledge and declare our continued allegiance to the Democratic party of the nation and on national issues reaffirm and endorse the principles laid down in its last national platform adopted at Kansas City, and which was fully and ably represented in the presidential campaign of 1900 by William Jennings Bryan. Regarding those principles as opposed to imperialism and colonialism, as opposed to government by injunction, as opposed to trusts and trust-fostering tariffs, as opposed to financial monopoly and as opposed to all other legalized monopolies and privileges, we condemn every effort to repudiate or ignore them.

In state and municipal affairs we pledge our party to a faithful application of those Democratic principles, to the end that the burdens of taxation may be equalized and home rule and local self-government be established and preserved.

REPUBLICANS ARRAIGNED.
Under the long continued control of the Republican party in this state, monopoly has been fostered and protected; the farmer and the small home owners have been burdened with excessive taxes that the beneficiaries and favorites of that party might be permitted to escape their just share of the public burdens; our public institutions have been wastefully and inefficiently managed and in them scandals and cruel wrongs have been practiced upon the defenseless wards of the state; the farmers and small shippers continue to suffer from unjust discrimination at the hands of unregulated monopoly; the fine system of municipal government has been wrecked and the credit of cities destroyed, thereby producing a spirit of insecurity and unrest in all public affairs. The people can no longer trust the administration of their affairs to a party thus recklessly devoted to interests adverse to the public welfare. As a more specific statement of our principles upon these and other public questions we declare:

TAXABLE PROPERTY.
1. That all taxable property should be appraised by assessing boards which should be in session for at least a part of each year and whose proceedings and deliberations should be open to the public; that power be given to employ a representative to present the interests of the public in hearings before these boards and that in making assessments all property should be appraised at not less than its saleable value.

2. That the present laws for assessing the property of steam railroads and other public service corporations should be so changed as to compel the assessment of those properties at not less than their saleable value as going concerns and to prevent their evasion of just taxation.

CLASSIFICATION.

3. That to prevent evasion of state taxes by discriminating valuations, a separation of the sources of state and local revenues should be made. And to that end we heartily endorse the constitutional amendment now pending before the people and to be voted on next year, which will permit classifications of taxable property.

4. That all public service corporations should be required by law to make sworn public reports and that the power of visitation and examination over such corporations should be given to the proper auditing officers to the end that the true value of the privileges had by such corporations may be made plain to the people.

FREE PASSES.
5. That the acceptance of free passes or other favors from railroads by public officers or employees should be made ground for their removal from office.

6. That the denial of the right of free speech and peaceable persuasion in times of labor disturbances is a denial of the right of free speech, and that government by injunction if persisted in, will wreck the liberties of the people.

MUNICIPAL CODE.

7. That we demand the enactment of a code which provides absolute home rule for municipalities which shall include the right to establish the merit system with civil service under which that system, as now in use in fire and police departments may be strengthened and perfected and be extended to other municipal departments particularly to water and lighting plants now operated by municipalities and to street car and all public service plants that may hereafter be established under municipal ownership and operation.

HANNA, COX AND FORAKER.
8. That we condemn the vicious and corrupt bargain between the boss of Cincinnati and Ohio's United States Senators to force through the legislature a code that will foist upon the municipalities of Ohio Cincinnati's form of government in order that the power of its boss may be preserved on one hand and on the other hand will perpetuate existing street railway franchises which Ohio's United States Senators represent.

9. That the municipal code should protect the public against all clauses which may be clandestinely placed therein in the special interest of public service monopolies by requiring that all ordinances granting, renewing, extending or modifying franchises shall be inoperative until confirmed by a majority vote of the people of the municipality, and we are unalterably opposed to the granting of any perpetual franchises.

SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.
10. That until United States senators are required by amendment to the federal constitution to be elected by popular vote nominations of candidates for United States senator should be made by state conventions. And we hereby direct that in the official call for the next Democratic state convention of Ohio there be embodied a clause providing for the nomination at that convention of Democratic candidate for United States senator and a clause providing for action by said convention, upon all amendments to the state constitution then pending before the people.

Upon these principles of home rule, and just taxation, and to the accomplishment of these purposes in municipal and state affairs, we invite the co-operation of all citizens of Ohio, regardless of their party affiliations on national questions, hereby solemnly pledging our candidates to the faithful observance of this declaration both in letter and spirit.

Notice To Bidders.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk at his office in Newark, O., until 12 o'clock, noon.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO INVESTORS:

Mine La Motte Lead & Smelting Company owns 37,614 acres of ground located in Madison and St. Francois Counties, Southeastern Missouri. Of that total 13,544 ACRES ARE KNOWN TO BE HEAVILY MINERALIZED. Only 20 acres have been developed by underground workings and about 67 acres have received attention on the surface.

The mines are producing to-day, under very limited operation, more than $150,000 a year. The present management is now installing machinery and improvements that will swell this annual output to AT LEAST $500,000. Present shafts and drifts place in sight five enough to tax all available machinery for centuries. Eliminating from the calculation all revenue from agricultural, timbering and miscellaneous sources, the property will earn a sum ample to pay immense dividends annually on the capitalization.

Investment in such a proposition as this does not in any sense border upon speculation. Stock in this corporation is as carefully protected as a Government bond. Since it is offered to you at a figure considerably below par, you can be assured of several times the ordinary rate of income.

Mine La Motte has been for a century one of the most famous lead producers in the country. It is the only mine today producing and shipping Nickel and Cobalt regularly. Its "Anchor Brand" of Pig Lead has been the standard of the market for years.

The estate, mine and plant have been under private ownership and control until now. From this time forward the output of the property will be increased as rapidly as modern machinery and methods can be installed to do it. Present earnings assure annual dividends of at least 8 per cent. on par, and inside of six months this will be doubled.

A small block of stock is herewith offered for sale at $7.50 per share (par value $10). The amount put out at this figure will be limited. Immediate investors can make good profit, both on income and on rise in value of stock.

A large number of representative Ohio investors have already made careful personal inspection of property and plant. We will place you in touch with them, or if any of your friends will undertake your own personal investigation we will submit proposition to defray all expense incident or same. We shall ask you to do no business with us unless you may be absolutely satisfied as to the safety, integrity and "profit" of this investment.

ALL DAY

SESSION OF HOME AND FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Of Zanesville Presbyterian Held in Parlor of First Presbyterian Church Here Monday.

An all day session of the Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of Newark District of the Zanesville Presbytery, convened in the First Presbyterian church of this city, at 10 o'clock Monday, September 22, being opened by the singing of a hymn and followed by an excellent Bible reading and talk on Missions by Rev. Dr. Work, of Granville, who concluded the devotional services by prayer.

Mrs. Lester Boyce, chairman, then very pleasantly welcomed all present, and after another hymn led in a short season of voluntary prayer, which proved to be very helpful in creating a right spirit for the work before the meeting.

The regular program was then commenced by a report of the Treasurer of the Presbytery, Mrs. Prout, who gave the amount of money contributed by the different societies of this district last year, amounting in all to $482.53.

This report was supplemented by Mrs. John Dean, who urged that all societies make their contributions early in the year, instead of waiting for the last quarter.

Mrs. Gillespie of New York, also addressed the meeting informally on this subject, giving illustrations to prove that early payments are due the treasurers.

Mrs. Pierson of Pataskala, added that $727 interest money had been paid by the Board because of tardy payments, a thing which ought to be avoided by all well regulated societies.

Mrs. Boyce then spoke of a remedy for this evil, reminding the meeting that most of this money for missions is obtained at the praise meetings of the societies, which are usually held late in the year, and a change in date for these meetings was possible.

After this discussion concerning the treasury, attention was turned to the Literary Department.

Mrs. Pierson of Pataskala, secretary of Literature for the Presbytery addressed the meeting on forecasting the work for the coming winter, and gave a very comprehensive report of the number of magazines and papers taken by the different societies, telling in a very encouraging way that this district is doing as well in this line as any other district of the Zanesville Presbytery; but urging that more personal subscriptions be given the secretaries.

Mrs. Pierson made an especially strong plea for the children's paper, "On Land and Sea," as there are only 770 copies being taken in Ohio, and this represents too small a percent for a whole state.

Other publications were given due attention, especially "Via Christi," and the speaker called upon Mrs. Omar Crane, president of the Second Presbyterian society of this city, for a few remarks on this book, which is being used as a text book, by different societies with marked success.

Mrs. Crane gave a very careful and thorough sketch of her subject.

Mrs. Moore of Granville, carried the discussion on literature further by making a plea for more thorough training of the children in the history of the church, and the subject of traveling libraries was introduced by Mrs. Gillespie, who urged that all women's work as they are in club work.

After a collection for missions was taken, Dr. Wilbur, of Mt. Vernon, the chairman of the committee of Foreign Missions, very kindly addressed the meeting on the subject of the synodical tour of Dr. Marshall, and asked the hearty co-operation of the Women's Societies to make this tour a success.

After prayer by Mrs. Moore of Newark, a social hour was thoroughly enjoyed in the parlors of the church, a new feature of which was the box luncheon, now so popular in the East, but just coming into vogue in this community in connection with the all-day sessions. The hot coffee furnished by the Newark societies added a keen relish to the lunch.

The afternoon session was opened by a praise service, led by Mrs. Green of Granville, followed by voluntary prayers, and interspersed with the singing of hymns of praise.

Mrs. Dean, chairman of the afternoon session spoke for a few moments on the subject of Dr. Mary Fulton, and the encouraging report concerning her work in China, also asked for more liberal supplies of the necessities of life to be sent to all the missionaries for whom the Presbytery has especial care.

After speaking of the new mode of conducting the all-day missionary meetings, Mrs. Dean introduced Mrs. John Gillespie, of New York, a Foreign Field Secretary, who is touring the Presbyteries under the Woman's Board of Missions of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Gillespie took for her subject "India," an old subject, it is true, but made so perfectly new by her own personal experiences in that country that her audience was given a rare treat, and the hour seemed far too short.

A good, practical and yet enthusiastic address, such as was given, will surely furnish food for thought for many a day, to those who were fortunate enough to be in attendance.

After most attentive listening to Mrs. Gillespie the meeting was concluded by the singing of a hymn, and the taking of a collection for the use of missions as authorized by the Board. The collection for the day was $11.72.

The meeting was then favored with a beautiful vocal solo by Mrs. Charles Miller.

Last on the program, but far from being least in importance, was an address on the work of the Young People's Societies, by their enthusiastic secretary, Miss Bogardus of Mt. Vernon, whose sprightly talks are always of great interest to the societies of this district. Her distinction given between Home and Freedman work was especially worthy of note, and the reports given, though condensed, were sufficiently amplified to broaden the views of her hearers.

Mrs. Boyce supplemented Miss Bogardus' address by recommending that each Young People's society have a missionary treasurer of their own beside the regular treasurer, in order that the missionary funds be more systematically taken care of.

After a few remarks on the tour of Dr. Marshall and the payment thereof, Dr. Wilbur informally spoke concerning the support by the Zanesville Presbytery of a missionary already in the field, and one to be put in the field; each church member in the Presbytery to feel himself subject to the payment of at least 13-13 cents a year.

After this pleasing talk an invitation was extended and gratefully accepted to hold the next fall meeting with the society of Fairmount church, near Jacksonstown, and thus was brought to a close a most delightful missionary meeting, which made all in attendance feel that it had done their souls good to meet and greet their co-workers in these meetings, held for the glory and the honor of the Master.

MRS. J. M. BROWN,
Secretary.

SEA FLOWERS AS PETS.

The Queer Little Creatures Known as Anemones.

The queerest pets in the world are kept in a beautiful row of clear, flashing, round glass tanks on an upper floor of a large aquarium. As you approach the tanks you behold glowing little groups of color and artistic blending and mingling of fantastic weeds and shining stones. Then when you peer into the tanks you see what at first seem to you just like particularly handsome and gorgeous flowers growing all over the little rockeries. Some of the flowers look like dainty pink and white and yellow and purple and crimson dahlias. Others look almost like daisies, with delicate petals. Others look like little star flowers, all pure white and perfect. These flowers are of all sizes, from tiny ones barely large enough to see to great ones almost large enough to fill a saucer.

But if you will watch these "flowers" for a few minutes you will jump suddenly, for all at once you will see one move its petals. Then you will see another and another do it. Slowly the petals unfold or contract, with little jerking movements, sometimes twining in the water like snakes.

Tap smartly on the table on which the tanks stand, and like lightning all the petals will have disappeared. These sea flowers are really not flowers at all. They are living creatures, known as sea anemones.

For many years a scientist has tended and fed them, and the little animated flowers actually have come to know him. When he feeds them, he puts a little bit of fish on the end of a long pointed stick and puts it carefully down into the water until it is near the anemone. It did not take long for the beautiful things to understand it, and whereas at first they used to withdraw their petals and shut up tightly when the stick approached, now they twine gracefully and stretch their dainty arms out as far as they can go in order to reach it.—London Answers.

Since 1899 the great Nile dam at Assuan has given steady employment to from 19,000 to 20,000 Italian and Egyptian laborers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

WORKERS ADDRESSED BY THE COUNTY SECRETARY.

Season for Fall Conventions—Two Were Held Last Week at Liberty and Mary Ann.

Dear Sunday School workers, of Licking county: The season of the year has come to hold our fall conventions. Several townships have held theirs already and others are planning to hold them in the near future. Get your date fixed and begin to plan for the meeting. If you want a County Worker, you should write us as soon as possible in order that we may arrange the work accordingly. Advertise the convention thoroughly. We never get a thing too well advertised. Attention needs to be called to our meetings a number of times sometimes, lest people forget. Advertise in plenty of time.

The conventions held in Liberty and Mary Ann townships this last week and week before were what we call successful meetings. They each had good audiences and a lively interest. There was much open discussion on topics of great importance. In the Liberty township convention the question of the winter closing of the schools received special consideration and we have no doubt will result in much good to that township. At the Mary Ann township convention the Normal class and Home department were made the chief subjects for discussion, which we are quite certain will result in the organization of more Normal classes and several Home departments. (Mary Ann township graduated the first Normal class in Licking.)

A word in regard to that beautiful State Normal Prize Banner which we were fortunate enough to win this year. It was only by a small margin that we gained this honor, but it marks a period in our advancement that we look to with a degree of gratification. The question now is shall we continue to keep our standing? The answer must come from you. If you will start new classes at once, reorganize old ones, and graduate a goodly number of students in the Normal Course before next June, we may not only hold our present standing but pass beyond it. Prof. W. A. Chamberlain is organizing a large class in Granville and will be glad to furnish information to any who are interested.

A word also in regard to the County Sunday School Year Book. It will soon be in your hands and we wish to call your attention to those who have so kindly helped to make this publication possible, namely our advertisers. These gentlemen have favored us and may we not show them the same consideration. Any who are not Sunday School officers or were not at the Granville Convention, wishing a copy of the Year Book, may receive one by sending stamp and address. We have the names and address of all officers and delegates. Yours in the service,

C. W. SHINN, Co. Sec.

A PARSON'S NOBLE ACT.

"I want all the world to know," writes Rev. C. J. Dilling, of Ashaway, R. I., "what a thoroughly good and reliable medicine I found in Electric Bitters. They cured me of jaundice and liver troubles that had caused me great suffering for many years. For a genuine, all-around cure they excel anything I ever saw." Electric Bitters are the surprise of all for their wonderful work in Liver, Kidney and Stomach troubles. Don't fail to try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction is guaranteed by F. H. Hall, druggist.

THE COURTS.

SUIT FOR DEFACTION OF CHARACTER.

Petit Jury Discharged—Colly vs. Carpenter et al.—Transfers of Real Estate—Court News.

Johanna Fitzgerald, by her attorney, Chas. H. Follett, has commenced suit in the Common Pleas court against Christopher Rinebolt for $2,000 for defamation of character, in accusing her of being immoral.

Petit Jury Discharged.

Judge Seward Tuesday morning discharged the Petit Jury from service during the present term. This was done for the same reason that the court on Monday discharged the grand jury—the unconstitutionality of the present jury law. It will be remembered that this matter in its effect on this county was discovered by Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fitzgibbon. Thousands of dollars and much expense and annoyance to individual litigants have been saved to the county and the people by this timely discovery. If this error had not been discovered in civil cases, the Court would have had to discharge the jury upon objections by the attorney of either party, and this would mean big expense to the loser in the suit. Too much credit cannot be given the Prosecutor for the important benefit which has been done the people of the county and the county treasurer by his alertness in this matter.

COMMON PLEAS COURT.

The case of Mary C. Colly vs. Susan Carpenter, et al., was tried to the Court Tuesday.

This is an action brought by Mary C. Colly vs. H. M. Carpenter, now deceased, and his widow, Susan Carpenter, still living, claiming that Mary C. Colly is a creditor of H. M. Carpenter to the amount of $600, and the suit is to set aside a deed made by H. M. Carpenter to his wife of real estate in Granville, in 1894, because it prevented the payment of her debt. Mrs. Carpenter defends the suit claiming that the transfer to her was in part payment of a debt her husband owed to her to the amount of four or five thousand dollars. The case was tried to Judge Seward, sitting as a chancellor, was argued and submitted this afternoon, and the case taken under advisement. Kibler & Kibler for plaintiff; Judge S. M. Hunter for the defendants.

LICKING TOWNSHIP.

Farmers are busy cutting corn. Dr. W. L. Jackson of Zanesville, circulated among his friends here last week.

Cephas Harter our popular produce dealer has been appointed superintendent of the Licking county infirmary as already published in the Advocate.

Prof. Atwell and Harve Wiyiarch were in Newark last Saturday.

Mr. Sigler an aged gentleman of California is spending a few days in this section, viewing places where he spent his boyhood days.

B. A. Boring will have a public sale next Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray and daughter Minnie spent last Saturday afternoon at Newark.

Miss Jessie Orr of Newark is spending her time at Hotel Courson.

Herschell Stewart and Wick Davis are cutting corn for Richardson and son.

Joseph Tavenor has bought a new hay baler. It is giving good satisfaction.

Our high school is doing finely under the management of Supt. Atwell, and Fannie Gray primary teacher.

Dr. Edgar Wiyiarch and wife of West Newark, visited the former's father and mother here last week.

Handley and Richardson have rebuilt a large barn for Jacob Puffer. This barn is one of the oldest in this part of the country; it was in use when stage coaches were running on the old National Road, and is supposed to be about 70 years old. The frame is in a good state of preservation.

David Ruble of Buckeye Lake, was in Jacksonstown last Friday.

Ollie Haines was in Newark Saturday afternoon.

MR. LINDORF

NOW FULL PARTNER IN EAST SIDE STORE.

Firm Name is Changed from Meyer Bros. & Company to Meyer & Lindorf.

An important change is just announced in the dry goods store at the southeast corner of the public square whereby the name of the firm Meyer Bros. & Company is changed to that of Meyer & Lindorf.

In other words Dr. Meyer of La Porte, Ind., retires from the firm and Mr. A. R. Lindorf, the manager, becomes a partner with a half interest in the store.

Mr. Lindorf's partner is Mr. C. H. O. Meyer, who is engaged in managing a large retail dry goods house at Clinton, Iowa, Mr. Meyer's store being the largest in Clinton.

Six years ago Mr. Lindorf came to Newark and took a position with Koesling & Meyer, who at that time occupied the room just north of the post-office building. At that time the firm had a single room and employed but eight clerks. As the business grew under Mr. Lindorf's able management gradually more room was added and more clerks were employed so that today there are 43 clerks in the store, which announces that it has the largest floor space of any dry goods store in the city. Six years ago the business was transacted in a single room, but today, the room adjoining on the north, one on the south, and the upstairs are utilized in carrying the big stock of the firm.

Mr. Lindorf can not do more for the advancement of the interests of the store as a partner than he did as manager for Meyer Bros. & Company. He has always been alert, courteous and capable in his dealings with the people of this community and during his residence here has formed many warm friendships. His friends will be glad to know that Mr. Lindorf is now a full partner in the business and will extend to him congratulations and wishes for a continuance of the success that has attended the store ever since Mr. Lindorf came to own.

For Target Practice.

The Second battalion infantry went to Newark Monday morning at 9:10 and will remain there for 10 days' rifle practice. Second Lieutenant Stone, of the Third Infantry, returned to the post Monday morning. Contract Surgeon Peddecord returned to the post Saturday. Twenty-five recruits will be sent to Fort Slocum, N. Y. coast artillery.—Columbus Dispatch.

CALLING THE TIGERS

[Copyright, 1902, by C. H. Lewis.]
Colonel Ryder, stationed at Bangalore, India, missed from his effects a valuable ruby. The only person who could have taken it was his body servant, who had served him faithfully and honestly for many years. The man protested his innocence, but the colonel ordered him flogged. The accused was a high caste man, and a flogging meant social death to him. In his distress he sent for an old man named Doorunda. The old man came and said to the colonel:

"Syng Rang is innocent. If you whip him, he must die by his own hand to wipe out the disgrace. Spare him, and I will do my best to find the thief who stole your ruby."

The colonel at once reasoned that Doorunda was a partner in the theft and announced that the flogging would take place on the morrow if the gem was not given up. It was not restored, and Syng Rang was publicly whipped and committed suicide the same evening. As for the old man, he disappeared from Bangalore, and there were those who thought he might have taken the plunder with him. Four months after the disgrace and death of Syng Rang and when the event was all but forgotten the colonel and four other officers of the Fifth went on a tiger hunt into the foothills of the western Ghats.

Three or four tigers and a couple of panthers were bagged, and not an accident had happened. Then, one of the servants reported that old Doorunda had been seen near the camp and when accosted by one who knew him well had run away. His only object could be revenge, but yet the matter was treated lightly. No search was made for him until his presence was reported again, and then the servants who were sent out did not wish to find him. He had a reputation of which they stood in fear. After three or four days, however, he entered camp one day when all the officers and most of the servants were away on the hunt. To one of the syces, or grooms, he said:

"I do not wish that harm should come to my own kin, but I will destroy the sabhis root and branch. On the third night from this, an hour after midnight, you will hear me singing behind those rocks up there. When you do so, you must not lose a moment in climbing a tree. Tell this to all others, but say not a word to the sabhis."

"But what is to happen when you sing?" asked the groom.

"What is to happen will happen."

With that Doorunda disappeared, to be seen no more. The groom notified all the other servants as they came in and then went to his master with the story. The five officers were made up of the colonel, major and three captains, and the groom served one of the latter. The story was passed along to the colonel, who received it with a sneer and sent out word that if the old man was caught sight of again he should be made prisoner and held for a flogging. If any of the officers was inclined to heed the warning, he gave no outward sign of it, but the servants quietly prepared to obey the injunction. At midnight on the third night, while the white men slept, the dark skinned servants left their campfires and mounted into trees and remained silent and watchful. For an hour all around them was quiet and peaceful, and some of them had begun to laugh at their own fears when the shrill, wailing voice of the old man came to them from the rocks. It was an incantation he wailed out, and he kept it up for ten minutes. None of the officers awoke. The servants shivered with fear as the voice continued, and the horses stamped and snorted and pulled at their halters. It was strange that men who sleep as lightly as soldiers do should not have been aroused, but it was so in this case. Two or three minutes after the song ended the natives looked down from their perches to see old Doorunda enter camp with as many as a dozen tigers frisking around him like so many dogs. He halted before the colonel's tent and stood still for a moment, and then, clapping his hands, he cried out:

"Now, now, now! Now you may read and tear and kill to the last!"
A horrible tragedy followed. The tigers separated and rushed upon the tents, and in only one case was a shot fired. It was all over in five minutes. Two of the horses broke away and escaped, but the others were dragged down. The maddened tigers sprang at the trees and raged about, but offered no harm to the old man in their midst. When all was over, he quieted them with a whistle, and standing in the center of the camp, he said to the terror stricken men in the trees above him:

"Had the sahib colonel spared Syng Rang I would have spared him. This is my vengeance for the wrong that was done an innocent man. Tomorrow you will go back to Bangalore and tell them what has happened, and tell them I brought it about. I am sorry for the sabhis who were innocent, but they were here with the guilty and could not be separated."
When morning came, the natives headed for Bangalore, and the tale they told on arriving appeared so incredible that all were locked up until it could be investigated. It was found true to a word. Every officer lay dead in his tent, and each one had been so mangled by teeth and claws that the living turned away from him with a shiver. And when an innocent man had been disgraced and driven to death, and five officers had been torn to pieces by savage beasts, these who overhauled the dead colonel's effects discovered the ruby in a box to which he had changed it for greater safety and forgotten the circumstances.

Nov. 27—Wittenberg at Springfield.

STELZER TO FIGHT LUTZ.

Buck Stelzer, the popular Columbus boxer, has signed articles to go 15 rounds with Lawrence Lutz before the Nonpareil Athletic club of Beaver Falls, Pa., on Oct. 10. The men will weigh in at 138 pounds. Buck is training at 138 Town street, where he will be glad to welcome his many friends. He is in fine shape and already within two pounds of the required weight.

Lutz's manager, T. O. Carman, was in Columbus Monday, and Buck's backer, Tom Morrissey, accommodated him with a $100 side bet.

Buck is working very hard. He did eight miles on the road Monday morning, sparred eight rounds with Kid Thompson, jumped the rope 4000 times, punched the bag ten rounds, besides using the clubs and dumbbells.

Stelzer has fought many battles in Newark, in which his skill and gameness made for him many admirers. His Newark friends hope for his success in the coming contest.

FOOTBALL

DENISON HAS FAST BUT LIGHT TEAM THIS YEAR.

The Hoosiers are Champions—Live Sporting News of Day Both Local and General.

Allan Nettleman, manager of the Denison University foot ball team, was in Newark a short time Monday en route to Concord, where he went to arrange for a game to be played between Denison and Muskingum College.

It is likely that a game will be arranged for this week between Denison and a team from the Third U. S. Infantry, now in camp at the State ground.

Mr. Nettleman is encouraged with the team's prospects and says Denison will have a fast team, although rather light.

DENISON AT COLUMBUS SATURDAY.

The Ohio Medical University team of Columbus will open the season at Neil Park Saturday, the first game being with Denison University of Granville. Manager Mutchmore of the O. M. U. team noticed by Denison's schedule as published in the Advocate that Saturday was an open date and Monday wired for a game, receiving an affirmative answer.

The game is to be called at three o'clock. This game will enable the followers of both teams to get a line on their playing. It is not expected that Denison will win the game, or even be able to score, as Coach Eckstorm has a team of giants, who carry around their beef and brawn with remarkable activity. In fact it is probable that he will have one of the strongest teams that ever represented the Medical school, which means one of the best teams in the State.

Denison has a light team, but they have great speed; and the hopes of their well wishers are that they will be able to hold their heavy opponents to a small score. The game will undoubtedly be well contested and will be witnessed by a large crowd.

The Hoosiers are Champions.

After a most exciting race in the American Association, Indianapolis has clinched the pennant in that organization by winning three games from St. Paul, while Louisville also won two games from Minneapolis, but for Louisville to have won the flag, Indianapolis would have had to lose two of the three games with St. Paul. Columbus, which started out so conspicuously and held the lead for many weeks by a good margin, will finish fifth.

FIRST LINEUP AT O. S. U.

The Ohio State University football team had their first practice on University field Monday afternoon in which 30 players took part and a big crowd looked on. Coach Perry Hale played at end on the scrub, against Connell, who is putting up a grand fight for the right end position on the varsity, and led him a merry chase. Coach Hale is developing the offensive game, believing that the defense will take care of itself. He believes a strong offense in football is analogous to heavy batting in baseball, and any manager would prefer a fair fielding team and strong in batting, to one of sensational fielders, and weak hitters.

Saturday Ohio State plays Otterbein, the game consisting of one 20 and one 15 minute half.

O. S. U. will not play Oberlin this year as the up state manager refused to accept the State University's only open date.

In Monday's practice the varsity was never held for downs, and scored almost at will against the strong scrub team.

SPORTING NOTES

Owen Zeigler was given the decision over Fred Douglass at Savannah, Ga., Monday night. In the second round Douglass' seconds claimed a foul which was not allowed, and he refused to go on.

Joe Gans of Baltimore knocked out Jack Bennett of McKeesport, Pa., in the second round before the Golden Gate Athletic Club at Philadelphia, Monday night.

In Russia the penalty for leading a strike is the same as that for rebellion.

HAYMAKERS

PARADE AT ZANESVILLE WITH CORNFIELD BAND.

A Great Night for Red Men, the Newark Degree Team Being in Zanesville.

(Zanesville Signal.)

About twenty-five members of Wa-beek Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, received the Haymaker degree Saturday evening at their hall in this city. The degree was exemplified by a Newark team.

The visitors arrived in the city at 8 o'clock Saturday evening and were met at the depot by local brethren. All marched to headquarters to the never-hear-before strains of a cornfield band. Some of the costumes worn by the marchers were decidedly grotesque.

Following the conferring of the degree a banquet was enjoyed by about 200 members. The Newark visitors returned home early Sunday morning.

The following officers were present from Newark: Chief Haymaker, E. C. Richardson; past chief haymaker, J. S. Dudley; first assistant, Wm. Daries; overseer, Edward Dudley; boss driver, J. J. Banks.

BIRD DOGS.

Some of the Almost Human Work These Crier Canines Perform.

Roading denotes that a dog is following a trail toward the birds by their foot scent, as a man in an analogous manner might follow a flock of sheep by watching their tracks.

Drawing denotes that a dog is approaching birds by a scent in the air, as a man might follow a flock of sheep by the long line of dust hovering over and around the flock. Drawing is considered a much superior manner to roading. It is commonly marked by greater accuracy, quickness of execution and dash of manner.

Pointing is the stop which the dog makes when he has definitely located the birds or when he thinks he has done so. It is the preliminary pause to accurately determine the whereabouts of the hidden birds before he springs to capture. If he misjudges and springs in the wrong direction, all his pains and labor come to nothing. In his training he is encouraged to point, but is prohibited springing, so that after a time he makes his point and holds it steadily.

If by any act, wilful or otherwise, he alarms the birds and they take wing, it is called a flush. If the dog when going up wind on game flushes the birds, he commits an error. If under certain circumstances he flushes when going down the wind, the error may be excused on the ground that being up wind of them it was impossible to scent them and therefore impossible to know of their presence.—Outing.

A Serene Temperament.

"Mike," said Plodding Pete, "don't you wish you was rich?"

"Kind o'," answered Meandering Mike. "Course I couldn't eat any more dan I does, but I'd be saved de trouble o' sayin' 'much obliged' so often."—Washington Star.

INDIAN SEEKS SENATORSHIP

Congressman Curtis of Kaw Tribe Would Go Up Higher.

An Indian is now a candidate for a seat in the United States senate. He is Congressman Charles Curtis of Kansas. Through a most romantic career he has climbed the ladder of fame from a poor Indian lad to a position of prominence among national lawmakers. He started out in life as a jockey on the race track, then trained bronchos, drove a hack, swept out a law office in pay for an opportunity to study law, was admitted to the bar, elected county attorney and then went to congress.

Mr. Curtis, says the Omaha World-Herald, belongs to the aboriginal race and is proud of the fact that his Indian forbears were here when Columbus thought he was discovering a new world. His mother was a member of the Kaw tribe. Mr. Curtis' mother died when he was about three years old, and he went to live with his Indian grandmother near Council Grove, Kan. This Indian grandmother is mentioned in the treaty with the Kaw tribe in 1825.

By this treaty she and her sisters were given what is known as "Kaw Mille Four," the tract of land upon which the city of North Topeka is now built. In the homestead on this tract of land Congressman Curtis was born in 1860, and his fine new house marks the place of his birth forty-two years ago.

Of one incident of his childhood Mr. Curtis has a very vivid memory. He was eight years old and was coming home from school in Council Grove when he saw a war party of naked Kaws, painted and in war feathers, mounted on their ponies, swoop down from a hill overlooking the town and dash through it toward a hill on the other side. Mr. Curtis, unthinkingly, wanted to know the why of all this, and one of the chiefs paused long enough to tell him that they were on their way out to fight their hereditary enemies, the Cheyennes, and to hold them back from the town till they could fortify it a little.

In a barn near by a large number of Kaw Indians gathered, and when the Cheyennes swept down through the town they passed this barn. A fierce shower of arrows stopped them, however, and leaving many of their braves wounded and dying, they retreated, leaving the Kaws victors. This was the last fight between these two tribes. Mr. Curtis' father thought this was rather too strenuous a life for his young son, so he sent for him to go back to Topeka.

OBITUARY.

At rest is Elizabeth C. Neibarger, who has been a life long resident of Madison township, Licking county, O. She was called to a better home beyond this vale of tears, September 14, after several long years of affliction, being confined to her chair for the past 15 years. Three years ago she lost her sight, and she has been nearly deaf for several years. She was born December 14, 1818, died September 14, 1902, aged 83 years and nine months. She left three brothers, one being a twin, two sisters and a host of relatives to mourn her loss. She united with the Protestant Methodist church at Pleasant Chapel in 1855, of which she has been an earnest and attentive member ever since.

No fears disturbed her last hours: the "peace that passeth understanding" was hers. It was well with her soul. Her hand of charity and kindness was ever open to all. She has accepted the welcome applaud, "Well done," and entered the rest prepared for the faithful.

ACCESSIONS TO FIRST CHURCH IN THE PAST YEAR.

Official Board Requests the Return of Rev. Mr. Johnson for Sixth Year. Church Figures.

Last Sunday closed the conference year for all the Methodist churches of this section of the State. Reports of the work of the year will be made by the pastors of the various churches to the session of the conference which meets in Zanesville next Thursday.

The first church of this city will be able to make a report which in many respects surpasses any previous record. During this year the improvements on the building including the placing of the fine new pipe organ, have been completed and paid for at a total expense of near $5,750. Of this amount the Pastor's and Ladies' Aid Society has raised about $450.00, and has published a "cook-book", the sale of which has been large and still continues.

The Epworth League has contributed its full share to the work and is entitled to a "due measure of praise.

The church contributes this year to the various benevolences a sum of over one thousand dollars. This includes the offerings of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, $318.99, and the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, $193. The total amount of benevolences has been more than doubled in the present pastorate, most of the increase being in the last year. These offerings have not interfered with the regular finances of the church which have been fully and easily met. The Board has determined to make a substantial increase in the salary next year.

Eighty-six persons have united with the church this year, bringing the total number of accessions during the five years of the present pastorate up to four hundred and seventy-seven.

The Official Board has requested the return of the pastor, Rev. A. E. Johnson, for the sixth year.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of building a fire department building on North Fourth street in said city, in pursuance of an act of the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, entitled an act to amend sections 2335, 2336 and 2337 and to repeal section 2337a of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, authorizing the issue of bonds by cities, villages, hamlets and townships, passed April 29, 1902, and of an ordinance, entitled an ordinance for the issue of bonds to raise money to pay for the construction of a Fire Department Building, Corner Fourth and Ash streets, passed the 19th day of August, 1902, authorizing their issue.

Said Bonds will be sold to the highest bidder for not less than their par value.

Bidders are required to state the number of bonds bid for, and the gross amount they will pay for the bonds bid for with accrued interest to date of transfer.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

Proposals must be sealed and endorsed "Bids for Fire Department Bonds," and addressed to The Finance Committee, City Council of City of Newark, Ohio, Clerk's office of said city.

F. T. MAURATH, City Clerk.

THE TRIUMPH OF BAREFOOT TOM

It was early in March when he first stood up in line with the Bancrofts' Mass B boys, or the B. B. B.'s, as they were called for short.

In the long row of black stockinged legs his bare brown ones made a discordant spot, and they certainly looked a little out of season. None of the other boys had as yet taken off his winter garments, let alone his shoes and stockings.

Harry Ashton was the acknowledged leader of the class. There had been dissenting voices, but until the day that Barefoot Tom crossed the horizon of his kingdom they had been under the breath grumblings.

"Why don't you wear shoes?" Harry asked him the first day.

"Ain't got any."

Harry sneered, but one of the dissenting grumblers, seeing perhaps in Tom's clear eye the qualities of leadership, said stoutly: "Gee, how bully! Wish I didn't. Then pa couldn't make me wear 'em." Barefoot Tom giggled his toes to show the delights of freedom and grinned in friendliness. That was the beginning. About his life up to this point he was extremely reticent. In the learning of books he was a complete ignoramus, but he possessed other qualities that, if they did not influence the judgment of grown-ups, to the boys were certificates of high quality. He could turn a hand-spring lightly as a cat, grasp the end of a dangling rope, swing straight out and turn a somersault to earth, hang by his toes and nose and perform numerous other exploits not less wonderful. So it resulted in a short time that the B. B. B.'s were divided into two factions—the Barefoots and the Shoddies. Shoddies being applied to the boys who reached the school shod as their mothers had sent them, the others having removed the burdensome shoes and stockings on the way. It would be superfluous to mention the names of the leaders.

Then came the circus. Of course every boy in the school went. They had been saving up pennies months ahead for the occasion. A few were so unfortunate as to have to go with their parents, but when the two factions gathered inside they made two quite goodly gatherings. There had been a number of fights between them lately, so they wisely kept on different sides of the tent as much as possible.

There never was another such menagerie, and Barefoot Tom was in his element. He seemed to know all about tigers, wildcats and snakes, and he held his small audience spellbound. Decidedly today the Barefoots were having the best of it.

As luck would have it, in front of the performing elephants the two factions met. "Golly, ain't they big! Let's feed them," said a Barefoot, suiting his action to his words. The Shoddies followed suit, and soon the elephants were having a fine time chewing up the well sucked ends of candy.

Harry had sucked all his candy, and he was beginning to feel rather out of it. As he looked down he spied the smoking end of a cigarette and saw a way to relight his fading glory. Standing with his legs far apart before a huge animal whose blanket was inscribed "Big Sam," he held out his hand with the unlighted end toward the elephant. Trustingly Sam extended his trunk for the expected dainty, and Harry, turning the cigarette, just touched the soft flesh with the burning end. With a roar, Big Sam thrust his trunk between the boy's legs, seized the seat of his trousers and lifted him off his feet. At the sight of Harry's legs dangling in the air the boys burst into a shout of laughter, but stopped in terror as they saw that the elephant was shaking the boy in fury, stamping his feet and roaring. The keepers came

It seems as though I'm all the time Provokin' ma or pa. And every day they tell me I'm The baddest boy they ever saw.

I'm sorry when I've run away; But boys don't think you know, About the things they folks'll say. Before they start to go. I wonder when I die some time And leave my ma and pa. If God'll sadly tell me I'm The baddest boy he ever saw. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Advised the Court. Jim Webster, a colored gentleman, was brought up before a western judge for fowl stealing.

After the evidence had been given the justice with a perplexed look said:

"But I do not understand, Webster, how it was possible for you to steal those fowls when they were roosting right under the owner's window and there were two vicious dogs in the yard."

"It wouldn't do you a bit of good, judge, for me to 'splain how I cotched dem chickens, for yer wouldn't do it yerself if yer tried it forty times, an' yer might get yer hide full of buckshot. De best way for yer to do, judge, is for yer to buy yer chickens in der market, like udder folks do, an' when yer wants to commit any rascality do it on de bench, whar yer am at home!"—Washington Times.

Mollifying "The Old Man."

"I am afraid, Bobby," said his mother, "that when I tell your father what a naughty boy you've been he will punish you severely."

"Have you got to tell him?" asked Bobby earnestly.

"Oh, yes; I shall tell him immediately after dinner."

The look of concern on Bobby's face deepened.

"Well, mother," said he, "give him a better dinner than usual. You might do that much for me."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Didn't Seem Possible.

Mr. Statlate—Is that clock right?

Miss De Pink (wearily)—I think it must need cleaning. It's been two or three hours going that last hour.—Stray Stories.

You can't have a good time today unless you forget tomorrow, and if you forget tomorrow it will punish you when it is today.—Atchison Globe.

"HANG ON TO THE ROPE."

running up, but before they could arrive Barefoot Tom was on Big Sam's back throwing a rope to Harry. Tom had climbed up the blanket of the next elephant and jumped over.

"Hang on to the rope for your life," called Tom, "and don't drop under his feet or you are a goner!"

Harry held, and Big Sam and Tom pulled. The seat of the trousers gave way. With a jerk Tom landed Harry on the elephant's back and then tossed him like a limp ball into the hands of a keeper. Tom jumped back to the next elephant.

Afterward when the boys had re-gathered and Harry was wearing his coat tied around his waist like a skirt to hide some discrepancies in his nether garment Tom explained. "You see," he said simply, "I was brung up in a circus. Ma told me not to tell or folks would look down on us." Whether this statement would have had the effect his mother feared upon the grownups I can't say, but the boys! Well, he rode home that night like a true monarch on the heads of his subjects, marching to the appropriate tune of "Shouting the battle cry of freedom."

Next day Harry appeared at school minus his shoes and stockings. "You see," he said to the boys, "it's getting kind of hot for shoes." But the boys knew it was the sign of abdication.

At recess he sidled up to Tom. "I've got a lot of allies. Want to see?" As much as a boy can be, Tom was without malice, so he looked. "I'll give them all to you if you'll show me how to do that double handspring off the board."

Now as the B. B. B.'s stand up in a row their small legs form an unbroken line of nakedness shading from the pink and white of the last surrendering boy up to the deep brown of Barefoot Tom's, and he has them all in training for a circus they are going to give in the fall.—A. Farnsworth in New York Press.

KATIE'S SILK QUILT.

A Little Girl Who Lifted the Mortgage and Won Many Hearts.

Katie sat thinking all morning how she could help her sick mother. The more she thought the more she shook her curly head. After awhile her eyes brightened, and a smile broke over her sweet little face. She ran to her mother's bedside, saying: "Oh, mamma, mamma, I have it! I have thought of a plan if you will only let me try it."

"What is it, my darling?" the pale mother asked tenderly.

"Well, mamma, dear, I have been thinking and thinking how I could earn some money so that we could keep our home. I want to go to Mrs. Jackson and the other rich ladies and ask them for the scraps of silk and velvet that have been left from their beautiful dresses. I will make them into a silk quilt, and I will do the work so neatly that every lady who sees it will want it. Then I will sell as many tickets as I can at 25 cents apiece, and maybe we will get enough money to pay that awful mortgage."

The mother's eyes filled with tears as she said, "What a wise little head my darling has!"

That very day Katie started out on her errand. The first lady she went to was Mrs. Jackson, for she was always kind to the poor. She told all the pitiful story about her sick mother, who had no wood to make a fire on cold, blustery mornings and who often had very little to eat.

Mrs. Jackson was a sensible, kind hearted woman with little boys and girls of her own, so she felt very sorry for Katie and her mother. She thought Katie deserved great credit for her pluck and determination, and she at once sent her own little Mabel to bring the scrap bag. Before the day was done the brave little girl had not only collected enough pieces to begin her quilt; but had also found her way into the hearts of ever so many ladies who felt that she was worthy of their help.

Eagerly she began her great task, cutting the pieces and blending the colors in each block. She hardly took time to eat or sleep, so anxious was she to finish her quilt, and just before Christmas the work was completed. It was certainly beautiful, and coming from such small hands made it doubly interesting. No good father or mother could refuse to take a ticket. Some took as many as a dozen.

The raffle was held at Mrs. Jackson's home, and more than 200 tickets had been sold. Mrs. Jackson's dear friend, Mrs. Blackwell, held the lucky number, and she at once put up the quilt and raffled it again. When Katie went home that night, she had enough money not only to pay the mortgage, but also to buy fuel and food to last them many weeks.

The good people of the town took a deep interest in the deserving widow and her unselfish child, and every few days something would be found on the back porch. Sometimes it was a bushel of potatoes or apples. Again there would be a load of wood all nicely piled up by some kind fairies or a huge bundle containing pretty warm dresses that were just big enough for Katie. On the first day of every month an envelope was found under the kitchen door with a crisp five dollar bill inside.

When the mother was able to be out of bed, Katie started to school again, and her bright face and earnest ways made her a favorite with all the teachers. She always stood at the head of her class, and in a very few years she was graduated with honors and was given a position as a teacher. Thus she was able to earn a comfortable living for herself and her mother, who was now too old to sew.—New York Herald.

The New Sentry and the Little Boy. The sentry stood before the throne. So pompous, grim and tall. A little lad came strolling in. So quiet, trim and small.

"Come, come! Be off!" the sentry said. "You can't stay here, you know. I am the king's new bodyguard; Be off and don't be slow!"

The little lad stood all amazed. As if he had not heard: The little lad stood still and gazed. To hear the sentry's word.

"Be off, you dolt!" the sentry cried. "And see you make no noise. The king or prince may soon be here; They don't like little boys!"

"Oh, but you're wrong!" the child re-

"The king, I know, loves me! While I like little boys myself. And I'm the prince, you see."

SKIRTS AND SLEEVES.

The Former Fit Closer Than Ever, the Latter Growing Laxer.

Skirts, at least those on dressy gowns, are cut longer than ever, so that the sides lie on the ground for a couple of inches in some cases.

The trimming of most of the new skirts is quite elaborate. They are laid into box plaits shirred in horizontal lines and divided into panels secured to each other by fagoting. The Louis XV. effect is also popular, the silk overskirt opening over an underpetticoat of lace.

The hips are even more snugly fitted than formerly, and the habit back is seen on a great many models.

Sleeves are growing much larger. All the fashionable models have the large puffs at the wrist or directly below the elbow. The upper continues close fitting, although fancy effects are being introduced.

CREPE DE CHINE COSTUME.

Few gowns will be seen this winter without the addition of lace. This comes in heavy varieties at a price which places it within the reach of all. Raised chignon appliques representing grapes or flowers are also much used on the more elaborate costumes.

The simple dress of crepe au lait crepe de chine here illustrated is useful for dressy afternoon affairs. The shirred skirt is one of the latest developments in fall fashions.

FOR COLD DAYS.

Fur Coats—Mantles to Match the Dress—Sashes.

Furriers are mixing their wares in a most incongruous manner, but at the same time with excellent taste.

The three-quarter length still holds its own in fur wraps, and sleeves are very voluminous, generally turned back with a cuff of another fur, which also forms the collar and revers.

The latest thing is to have a short scarflike mantle of the same goods as the dress. This has long been the fad

BLACK BROADCLOTH SKIRT.

In Paris, where uniformity of color in a costume is the rule. These capes are trimmed with ruffles or bands of embroidery and finished with stole ends which reach in some cases to the bottom of the dress. A wrap of this sort need not be lined if it is made of silk or double goods.

Knotted velvet sashes are in as great favor as formerly. The newest is made of six strands of ribbon, three on each side knotted twice.

A particularly smart tailor made is here illustrated. It is of fine black broadcloth with a wide turnover collar of white silk strapped with heavy white embroidery bands and the rolling fronts are treated in the same way. The suit itself is perfectly plain, with the exception of its black strappings, which are of the same cloth.

A WARTIME ADVENTURE

[Original.]

Theodore Pearson, escaped prisoner of war, had been hiding all day in the woods beside the James river, but now that the dusk of evening was coming on he left his hole under a log and made his way along the bank in a southeasterly direction. He had left Libby prison by means of a tunnel, in company with a number of others, a few days before and was aiming to reach the Union fleet in Hampton Roads. Coming to a fence inclosing a plantation, he made a careful survey of the premises and was about to proceed by the river margin when a young girl left the house, hurried down to a boat, untethered it and, seizing a pair of oars, rowed away from the shore. The current being very strong, she pulled diagonally against it. She had not given a dozen strokes before her boat was carried against a sunken log, and the full force of the water, striking it sidewise, turned it bottom upward. The girl was whirled rapidly away.

Although Lieutenant Pearson was a good swimmer, having been on prison diet for months he would not have had the strength even to attempt a rescue had he not received in the last few days a good supply of salt pork and corn pone from some negroes. However this may be, he ran swiftly down to a point below the girl where he would have but a short distance to swim to reach her as she floated by and plunged in. She had gone under on leaving the boat and had come up just as Pearson left the point. Before he reached her she sank again. Pearson dived, made a fortunate clutch, for he could not easily see through the yellow clay mingled with the water, and caught her skirt. Then he struck out for shore, which he reached safely. He had scarcely done so before he heard the sound of oars, and in a few minutes a boat came from out the gloaming. Its single occupant, seeing Pearson standing over the unconscious girl, pulled toward him. When the Union officer saw that he was in Confederate uniform, he made up his mind to a return to Libby.

A few snatches of words explained the situation to the Confederate and to Pearson that the others were to have met in the middle of the river. The girl being late, the man had come on. He begged Pearson to go to the house for assistance. Pearson started and for a moment was tempted to take to the woods, but was incapable of gaining his freedom by deserting a girl whose life was still in jeopardy. In a few minutes the household was aroused, and the girl was revived, carried to her home and soon recovered.

When the excitement had subsided, the Confederate looked about him for the stranger. He had disappeared. Every negro on the place was started to search for him and to say that Captain Pemberton desired to thank him for saving Miss Blair, his betrothed, and to entertain him for the night. An hour later all the negroes had returned and reported that the man could not be found.

Captain Pemberton remained at the plantation. During the evening he heard the barking of a bloodhound. "Some poor devil is in hard luck," he said. "That dog has caught the scent."

About 10 o'clock, Miss Blair having entirely recovered, her lover started on his return to his command. The girl insisted on saying adieu at the door and came downstairs with him into the hall. At the same moment the front door was thrown open, and at the entrance, surrounded by a guard of Confederates, stood the man who had saved Miss Blair's life.

"May we keep this man here over night?" asked the leader. "He is an escaped Libby prisoner."

Miss Blair was about to enter a protest when her lover stopped her. "Certainly," he said, then to Pearson, "I assure you, sir, after what we owe you, this is a very painful meeting."

Pearson was taken to one of the out-houses, and the plantation gradually quieted down.

At midnight Pearson heard a voice say to his guard: "Take your blanket to that gallery and go to sleep. I'll stand watch for you awhile." A few minutes later Captain Pemberton through a window beckoned to the prisoner to follow him. Taking Pearson by a circuitous route, in order to avoid the guard, he led him to the margin of the river.

"There is my boat," he said. "In it you will find provisions for a week. Here is my uniform coat. With these you ought to be able to make your way to the Federal fleet below. If you are taken, send for me at once. I prefer to be shot for this rather than that you should go back to Libby."

Pearson tried to speak, but could only mutter incoherent thanks.

"And here is a note of thanks from the dear girl whom you saved for me," added Pemberton.

Pearson took the note, thrust it into his pocket, the captain tossing his coat into the boat as the other pushed off. All night the fugitive pulled down the river and in the morning tied up for rest and a good breakfast, which he found in his larder. After reading the thanks of the lady he had saved he put on Captain Pemberton's coat and continued his journey. He was stopped several times, but the uniform saved him. When near Newport News, he was picked up by a United States gunboat.

Years afterward Lieutenant (then Colonel) Pearson met in Washington the man who assisted him to escape Pearson was one of the principal Federal judges, while Pemberton represented his state in congress.
